The 1946 Dawn 52' was listed in the Winter issue without a photo. In speaking with Cynthia at the Julius Petersen yard, I understand they now have a likely buyer. However, knowing how uncertain purchases of these old boats can be, I thought it best to list her again. If interested, call soon!

According to the yard: "Her name is, appropriately, 'DAWN CHASER'. The only history we have starts here. She came to the yard in '98, with an owner who had just purchased her for $25,000. He had her hauled and requested assorted work, but then changed his mind when he received the estimate. And there she sat. And sat. And... you get the idea. Over the years, storage payments were often delinquent, communications difficult to impossible. Numerous people made inquiries to buy her, and he always refused. Last summer, with overdue storage adding up, the yard liened the boat. Ironically, the storage costs ultimately matched the original estimate. I wish I knew the history before this, and I'm sure with the right research it could be found.

She's been covered for years, and looks pretty much the same, though the bottom will need a lot of attention. The boat's been out for eight years. The engines were properly winterized, and were started three years back."
