1971 EGG HARBOR FLYBRIDGE SEDAN 37'. 14' beam. Owner says, "I have been trying to sell my 1971 37' Egg Harbor flybridge sedan for two years now. At this point I'm looking at salvaging her to get what I can for her. I would rather see her go to someone who will continue restoring her since I have run out of funds and time to continue. She is currently in the water and seaworthy but is in need of a lot of work. I sistered 40 frames in 2002 and rebuilt both of the engines and reverse gears along with repairing and refreshing all the mechanical systems on board. The generator is old but still works well and she runs beautiful. She is powered with Palmer M392 gas engines with new Edelbrock marine carbs, new exchangers, alternators, pumps, and rebuilt starters. Planking is sound and I partially refastened her and sister framed with black locust and cherry knees. The transom needs to be replaced and that is the most major issue left to be dealt with. This boat can be sailed to any location. Her hull number is 1807 and has a clear title. I plan on salvaging her by June but I would love to see if any of your subscribers would be interested in her. She truly is a good vessel and deserves for someone to finish what I have started. All the work that I have done to her is professional; anyone doing a good inspection will see that." Asking $5000. 1952 CHRIS CRAFT DINETTE CRUISER 25'. Broker says, "Although this very rare sedan-dinette started its life with the original model "K" 95 H.P. Hercules engine, it has been updated with a Chris Craft Chevrolet 283 engine as well as a windshield placed on the roof in the cockpit area where a rear helm-station was added. All the original gauges and steering wheel are still in place at the original helm station located at the forward windshield. This is an affordable weekend water-condo as is or has the potential to be restored for the purist as all the original components are there. Optional trailer available." Boat located in Lake Shasta, CA. Contact John at (510) 814-0522 or johnhd@myclassicyachts.com
